Does this WKU win spur the team on a win streak?

I think the encouraging thing about last night's win is this:

It shows that we definitely have some talent here. And hopefully next season, a new coach...can exploit that talent.

So, to answer your question: I doubt it. But, still congratulations to Tina and the team on a great win last night.

I've felt ever since her first or second game that Brittney James was gonna be great. She was only used sparingly last year, but she's really coming into her own lately.

So with the late season tumble, I don't think there's any way Tina saves her job unless she wins the SBC tournament. I guess making the Finals might be enough, but I doubt it.
