
Sal Pal moves WAY up on my list

I can't believe someone had the guts to write the truth. Favre was good, but not that good. I really am shocked that someone actually went forward with what most people are thinking, and dared to step out of line of the Favre love-fest, especially a well known ESPN writer. I couldn't believe there were actually debates on the radio this week on if Favre was the best QB of all time. All-time, really? Out of guys I have personally watched, I would take Montana, Aikman, Young, Elway, Marino, Manning, and Brady over him. That's not even getting into the many greats before my time.

Anyway, here is the link:
