NT better be careful, or the NCAA might get so mad, they could take away another scholarship over this, just to show USC they mean business.

Hell, the stuff he got while in HS are even more stunning. USC might get punished....their basketball squad doesn't have the clout to weasel out of punishment like the football team does.

Maybe they will come down really hard on USC and take away their wins from this year...and then give them back a year later.

Well they routinely used to punish SEC schools. Up until a year ago I think at least 1 SEC school was on probation for like 20 straight years.
