
Great American Shootout starts Friday

Posted by SUMG - 2008/07/10 18:08

I plan on going out for some of the action.....anyone else going to the GASO?

sumg

=====

Re:Great American Shootout starts Friday

Posted by scrappy - 2008/07/10 19:26

I do hope to drop by on Saturday - lot of talent to see at these things. Keep your eye out for Emmitt and I.

=====

Re:Great American Shootout starts Friday

Posted by CMJ - 2008/07/10 20:12

Put up your thoughts if you can fellas.

=====

Re:Great American Shootout starts Friday

Posted by SUMG - 2008/07/12 15:44

I saw parts of several games today. There were a lot of college coaches there (mostly assistants---didn't see any recognizable head coach while I was there).

Saw a player who I liked in one game: Jeremiah Ford, Arlington Sequin. He was only....6'5 at most. But the kid just made plays...he always seemed to be around the ball. I think he just graduated....so he could be signed (or walkon) at some place this fall...

One thing that bugs me about the GASO. You'd think that having 3,000 high school hoopsters (mostly from Texas)...with most of the better ones playing on our campus....you'd think we could recruit Texas high school basketball players....better than we do.

I mean, come on. Ben Knox? Back to back players from Howe?

I mean, we got Tristan Thompson, a Texas kid....but we got him by way of a New Hampshire Academy---not straight out of Texas. As a matter of fact most of our Texas players....probably come here as jucos...or come back as transfers--not straight out of Texas high school.

I don't get that. SFA and UTA recruit better out of Texas high schools than we do.

You'd think with the GASO in Denton every year...we'd take better advantage of it.

=====