From a well known hoops recruiting guru when I asked him specifically about Jordan Green and others. (Yesterday)

"Talked to Jordan himself. He is considering UNT. Hasn't decided yet.

I think you mean Forest Robinson not Rucker.

If in fact, UNT has taken Norris as a G which we haven't been able to verify, why in the world would they want Davis?

Don't think York is a possibility. UTEP or Texas Tech probably Anderson's advisers feel he is better than UNT. He keeps saying things like Wake Forest which is not going to happen. Anderson told UTEP not interested, had better offers. He doesn't.

Jones is certainly a possibility. Why then would they take Davis? if they already had Norris and could get Jones"

Any insights on Abron?

And it feels weird to be asking this after so much interest from HS recruits... But what sort of work are we doing on the JUCO front? Any names out there that anyone has heard us pursuing? 7 open ships ought to allow us to entice at least one quality JUCO to sign early if we're in the market for them.

He took a visit here last weekend. I would say our chances are slim to none

I hope to hell we land him , but someone who knows him told me that they thought he would choose Oklahoma State... this isn't from Abron directly , just someone who knows him

That I do :)

I work with 2 guys who help train kids in the AAU scene. One went Old Dominion the other Central Florida ( I think ) I work with another guy who is one of Scott Cross's best friends. I got another guy who goes to church w/ Johnny and talks to him every Sunday

My house also sits between coach Forrest & coach Lama ( just found that out last weekend ) , while also attending church w/ asst tennis coach Maren

I've learned that if I don't act too interested and just keep my ears open I can gain more info

On a related note, I learned that if I stopped blogging, people trust me again.
